Kevin Weeks is brilliant in his slow, deliberate and calculated steps to captivate his audience with the Street Life Series. His debut novel of the series, Is It Suicide or Murder? follows Teco aka Homicide through the streets of Philly down to DC and back. Teco is like many of our youth who are pulled by the gravity of the streets that ultimately dismantles the minds and spirits of these young gifted brothers and sisters. The up close portrayal of youth in the inner cities is profound, disturbing and entertaining at once. Written with great insight, description and character development, Mr. Weeks is sure to hit harder with the next book in the series. Writing urban fiction or street lit is not a walk in the park and Kevin Weeks' story resonates with complete authority, authenticity and accuracy.
